Strategic Initiatives

On February 23, 2007, Jaguar announced its intention to change the focus of the Company from a mineral exploration company to a merchant bank, focused on creating value for Jaguar's shareholders by making investments in what management considers undervalued companies in various industry sectors. The Company believes that management has very good merchant banking experience, which will assist it in making investments in undervalued companies and realizing on such investments, passively or proactively, depending on the circumstances of the particular company. Proactive involvement by Jaguar could involve working with management or the directors of the particular company to implement necessary changes to create shareholder value, or by initiating change at the board level, or by implementing a change of control transaction.

Since commencing operations as a merchant bank in Q1 of 2007, Jaguar has invested in publicly traded securities of thirty-nine companies, which the Company believed were undervalued. Nineteen of those positions were liquidated - seven in fiscal 2007, and five and seven in Q1 and Q2 of 2008, respectively. The Company currently holds the shares of twenty companies from different industries.

The largest position currently held by the Company is Royal Laser Corporation ("Royal"), which represents approximately 47.7% of its total holdings.

Results of Operations

The economy and capital markets environment remained challenging in the quarter. Credit markets continued to deteriorate, disrupting global stock markets. Fears of a recession and continued difficult liquidity conditions have resulted in equity market volatility and lack of investor confidence.

These conditions have produced difficult circumstances for specialized merchant banks, such as Jaguar, to operate in. The factors noted above are even more intensified for the small and micro capitalization companies that the Company invests in.

Due to these difficult market conditions, the Company reported a net loss of $3,480,783 for the quarter ended June 30, 2008, compared to net income of $779,803 a year ago.

Throughout 2006, the Company operated as a mining company. It sold its Guatemalan subsidiary for a gain in Q1 of 2006 and subsequently recorded a purchase price adjustment in Q4. The Company changed its business focus from mining to merchant banking in Q1 of 2007, investing in publicly traded securities of a number of companies in different industries. The fluctuation in income and total assets quarter over quarter in 2007 and 2008 is reflective of investment gains and losses, and the fluctuation in the prices of the securities held by the Company.

Change in Accounting Policy

Effective January 1, 2008, the Company adopted Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants ("CICA") Handbook Section 1535 Capital Disclosure, Section 3862, Financial Instruments – Disclosure and Section 3863 Financial Instruments – Presentation.

Section 1535 establishes standards for disclosing information about an entity's capital and how it is managed.

Section 3862 requires entities to provide disclosures in their financial statements that enable users to evaluate:

- (a) the significance of financial instruments for the entity's financial position and performance; and
- (b) the nature and extent of risks arising from financial instruments to which the entity is exposed during the period and at the balance sheet date, and how the entity manages those risks.

Section 3863 establishes standards for presentation of financial instruments and non-financial derivatives. It deals with the classification of financial instruments, from the perspective of the issuer, between liabilities and equity, the classification of related interest, dividends, losses and gains, and the circumstances in which financial assets and financial liabilities are offset.

Financial instruments

The Company's business primarily involves the purchase and sale of securities and, accordingly, the majority of its assets are currently comprised of financial instruments. The use of financial instruments can expose the Company to several risks, including market, price and liquidity risks. A discussion of the Company's use of financial instruments and their associated risks is provided below:

Price risk:

Price risk is the risk that the fair value of, or future cash flows from the Company's financial instruments will significantly fluctuate because of changes in prices. The value of the financial instruments can be affected by changes in equity prices.

The Company invests in small capitalization publicly traded securities. These investments are subject to market risk such that the fair value of these items may change as a result of factors specific to a particular investment or as a result of factors affecting all instruments traded in the market.

The Company manages this risk by having a diversified portfolio, which is not singularly exposed to any one or class of issuer. Jaguar's investment activities are currently diversified across five industries – alternative energy, industrial, technology, telecommunication and natural resources.

Liquidity risk:

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Company will have sufficient cash resources to meet its financial obligations as they come due. The nature of investments in small market capitalization companies that are not heavily traded exposes the Company to a liquidity risk whereby it may not be able to liquidate the investments quickly at, or close to, fair value. The Company generates cash flow primarily from its investment activity and proceeds from the liquidation of its investments, in addition to interest income earned on its investments. The Company has sufficient marketable securities, which are freely tradable and relatively liquid to fund its obligations as they become due under normal operating conditions.

The Company manages liquidity risk by reviewing the amount of cash available on a daily basis, to ensure that it can meet its current obligations. The Company holds investments, which can be readily converted into cash when required.

Critical Accounting Estimates

Critical accounting estimates used in the preparation of the financial statements include the determination of fair value of the Company's investments and the estimate of the value of stock-based compensation. These estimates involve considerable judgment and are, or could be, affected by significant factors that are out of the Company's control.

As it relates to the valuation of its investments, the Company uses the closing bid price of the underlying securities on the last trading day of the period to fair value its investments. Management believes that the bid price is reflective of fair value. Certain factors may have an effect on the fair value such as general market conditions and the volume of shares traded.

The factors affecting stock-based compensation include estimates of when stock options might be exercised and the stock price volatility. The timing for exercise of options is out of the Company's control and will depend, among other things, upon a variety of factors including the market value of the Company's shares and financial objectives of the holders of the options. The Company has used historical data to determine volatility in accordance with Black-Scholes modelling, however the future volatility is inherently uncertain and the model has its limitations. While these estimates can have a material impact on the stock-based compensation and hence results of operations, there is no impact on the Company's financial condition.

Disclosure Controls and Procedures

The President and Chief Financial Officer have established and maintained disclosure controls and procedures in order to provide reasonable assurance that material information related to the Company is made known in a timely manner. Management has evaluated the effectiveness of the Company's disclosure controls and procedures as of the date of this report and believe them to be adequate and effective in providing reasonable assurance that material information is reliable and timely.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

The President and Chief Financial Officer are responsible for certifying that they have designed the Company's internal control over financial reporting ("ICFR") to a standard that provides reasonable assurance of the reliability and accuracy of financial reporting. The certifying officers have evaluated the design of the Company's ICFR as of the date of this report and have concluded the design to be sufficient to provide such reasonable assurance. The financial statements have been prepared by management in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) and in accordance with the accounting policies set out in the notes to the financial statements for the three months ended June 30, 2008.

Management must disclose in its MD&A any material weakness found to exist within its system of internal control over financial reporting. Management has identified a material weakness relating to the lack of segregation of duties. The management group of the Company is small and the ability to achieve an appropriate level of segregation of duties throughout the year is limited. This is a typical issue for smaller companies, and while the Company has added additional management staff, which has strengthened the segregation of duties, there still existed limited segregation. Management believes, however, that the risks associated with the lack of segregation of duties have been mitigated by the implementation of other controls. The Audit Committee has direct oversight responsibilities for the review and approval of the quarterly and annual financial disclosures and the Company has a qualified senior accountant engaged on a full time basis to manage the Company's financial disclosures.
